May 14 is Clean Up Day; Ferry Road Gates and Signals Slated for August

Next Monday, May 14, is Bethel's Annual Spring Clean Up Day. Highway Department crews will pick up waste materials left at the roadside beginning at 8 a. m. Loose materials should be placed in plastic bags or other appropriate containers and brush should be tied in bundles. Any kind of material will be picked up provided it can be lifted by two men. All residents are urged to participate in clean up activities.

The Board of Selectmen met in special session Thursday evening, May 3, to act on a number of items. A number of residents from the lower Main Street area were present to speak on behalf of a petition regarding problems with noise, and other activities in and around the Sudbury Inn. Following considerable discussion, the Selectmen voted to hold a hearing on the Sudbury Inn's special amusement permit on Monday, May 21.

Alan Chapman spoke to the Board regarding the possibility of constructing a jumping pit at the airport. Questions concerning liability, liability insurance, and the use of waivers were discussed. Mr. Chapman indicated that if liability insurance were required, he would withdraw his request. Manager Ness was directed to review the situation with the Town's Attorney.

The Selectmen voted to accept with regret Ray Moran's resignation as a Trustee of the Bethel Water District.

The Board reviewed the proposed amendment to the Sewer System Study to include Sludge Site Selection and authorized the Manager to submit the proposed amendment to EPA and the State DEP for approval before it is signed by the Board.

The Manager reported that the Canadian National Railroad is planning to install the signals and gates on the Ferry Road crossing in August, but that delays might occur because of the availability of materials.

The remainder of the meeting was spent discussing possible appointments to Boards and Committees.

The Selectmen will meet in regular session Monday evening, May 14 at 7 p. m. in the meeting room of the Bethel Savings Bank. Agenda items will include: a public hearing regarding making the current landfill hours permanent; a public hearing on the application of the Bethel Inn for a liquor license and special amusement permit; consideration of truck body bids; a review of correspondence from the Lions Club; a review of DuBois and King invoices; and review of the proposed 1979 Sewer Department Budget.

"Plain and Fancy" Well Received by Local Audiences

A community presentation of the Broadway musical "Plain and Fancy" played to capacity audiences at the Telstar auditorium, Bethel, on May 4 and 5. Directed with flair and imagination by Benny Rheel of Buckfield, the large cast performed in the joyous precision of a closely cooperating team. Terry Eldridge conducted his orchestra sensitivity throughout the evening, making the music complement the singers rather than compete with them.

The staging of this story of the Pennsylvania Amish people was consistently interesting to look at and some moments were especially pleasing. The opening scene's crowd, frozen in intricate positions, served as a fascinating visual counter-point for the intruding New Yorkers, Carol Fiske and Mac Davis.

In body movement, facial expression, and time Fiske commanded attention as a skilled comedian. Her marathon of ac-pin" received excellent reviews. The public is cordially invited to attend "Pippin" and there is no admission charge.

The directors granted initial approval to policies concerning fees for use of district facilities; use of district vehicles; district employees/students activity; pay of substitute teachers; superintendent liability policy. A second vote on the policies (for final approval) is scheduled for May 21. Policies are to be effective July 1, 1979.

The board authorized Supt. Kenneth Smith to apply for fiscal year 1979 Title I funding.

The resignation of Mrs. Gretchen Davidson, executive secretary to the superintendent since last fall, was accepted and will be effective on May 25, 1979. Authorization was granted to post a vacancy in this position.

Supt. Smith was authorized to rent a 66-passenger bus to Camp Nygren in Albany for use during the summer months. Cost of fuel and insurance on the bus will be borne by Camp Nygren and S. A. D. #44 will be reimbursed at 35 cents a mile.

Authority was given the superintendent to execute a lease agreement with the U. S. Forest Service for two M. S. A. D. #44 vans and 20-passenger school buses. The Forest Service requests these vehicles for approximately nine weeks during the summer in conjunction with the Bethel Area Youth Conservation Corps Summer Program.

The board created the position of psychological evaluator for the 1979-80 school year and authorized the Superintendent to post a vacancy in the position.

The directors approved Paul Bodwell of Bethel as a member of the finance committee, replacing Brian Stowell of Woodstock.

A report of happenings at Telstar Regional High School and activities of the Telstar Student Council was given by Telstar students Maryanne Jaro and John Schachter, both of Andover.

Board members Ruth Feeney and John Laban of Bethel; James Sysko, Newry, and Brian Stowell of Woodstock, were absent Monday evening.

Northwest Bethel — Sunday River

Clarice Gibson, Corres.

How beautiful the sky is this morning! The trees are just budding out and soon will be once more dressed in their summer leaves. Frank tapped on the window the other day and when I went to look the clump of bloodroot was out in full. These are almost like crocuses in that they have almost no stems and have blossoms about the size of a crocus. They do, though, close up for the night. The ducks are back again and do like to see them lazily swimming on the river.

Thursday was Senior Citizen day for "Plain and Fancy" and Friday and Saturday were regular nights. Mr. and Mrs. George Guinness were in the play and they with the rest of the cast went to a party after the play at Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson's in East Bethel.

Jody Shimamura ran the lights for the play. Some of those going were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Angvine, Thelma Merrill and Gerry Shimamura.

Amy Hannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hannon, and Shilo Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hutchins, registered for kindergarten Wednesday afternoon.

Amy and Mary Beth Hannon and Shilo Hutchins are practicing for "Alice in Wonderland" recital.

Daniel Hannon is coaching Middle School baseball.

Joe and Billy Shimamura got to Japan and are having a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Laban now have four new lambs. Three are black and one pure white. The pure white is a twin of one of the blacks.

Sue Angvine took Sheri, Kristy and Timmy, Friday night to see "Plain and Fancy" at Telstar.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stearns went to Lewiston Thursday to Dr. Kim and Bob is able to remove his nose brace during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Anderson went to Portland to the "Johnny Cash Show." Pat said that it was a very good show. After the show they went to Boone's Restaurant on the waterfront. Sheri Angvine stayed with the two boys.

Mrs. Lester Butters went Thursday to Brunswick for a visit with Ethel Elliott who is staying with a cousin. Ruth went down with Chester Hayes of Shelburne, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Butters went to North Lovell to visit Mrs. John Palmer. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer had recently been in an auto accident and John is still in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Butters went to the ham supper at Odd Fellows Hall, Saturday.

Mrs. Stan Brown took care of the little Gilbert girl on Bridge Street a couple of days. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gilbert.

Kathy Chapman went back to South Carolina Thursday for the new opening of another Slender World. Frank and Ida took their daughter to the Portland Jetport.

Mrs. Myrtle Lapham was given a life-long membership to the United Methodist Women's Group last Thursday. This was a regular meeting at the home of Betty Perkins.

Alice Howard and Myrtle Lapham went to Jordan's Restaurant Friday on the way to the Ledgeview nursing home. This was a belated celebration of Alice's birthday. At Ledgeview they visited Mildred (Grammie) Chapman and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benson went to see his sister, Mrs. Gladys Easton, in West Peru last week.

Tuesday I picked up Aunt Sara in Albany and we went down to the folks. Mr. and Mrs. George Allen's, where we had dinner. My sister, Iva Holden, was also there.

Wednesday, had to go to Livermore Falls to pick up some apple trees. On the way back I stopped at my brother's and wife, in Canton, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Allen.

Thursday, Barbara MacDougall and I went to a rummage sale in East Bethel. Judy Coolidge and two girls were also there. Frank, Ira and I took a lunch and went up-country smelting that evening. While the men were smelting (we didn't get any) I sat and watched the darkness come creeping in. I started hearing the rain on the roof and the tree frogs singing their songs and just enjoyed the peacefulness around me as I waited.

Dot Fisher came in for a visit and is now living in Buckfield and said she loves it. She found the people in Buckfield very friendly.

Friday Ira took Ricky Angvine and Richard Saunders smelting, but guess they're pretty near through.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jordan from Cape Elizabeth were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alden MacDougall.

Douglas Smith of Cape Cod spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith were Bruce, Betty, Matthew and Michael Smith, Dennis Smith and Susie Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason, Carol and Melinda, took Betty Blake, Peggy James and Vince Chapman with them to the house show at Evergreen Valley. The girls came home with 18 ribbons.

East Stoneham

Gladys Kilgore, Corres.

Delynn Merrill went to Oxford Saturday to a get-together of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Mrs. Frances Grant and Mrs. Sharon McAllister are having a vacation from their work at Grover's Mill at North Waterford.

The first thunder shower of the season was quite heavy. It struck Violet Doughty's home, smashing all the light bulbs and some other damage. It also upset the fire alarm and that had to have some one shut it off.

Phyllis Millett and Joan Grover cleaned the church and vestry one day last week.

Russell Dudley entered Maine Medical Center Hospital Monday for tests.

John Grover is able to be out again after having a bad fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanwood Nelson visited relatives in Conway Saturday.

Several from here attended the Friendly Senior Citizens at North Waterford Wednesday. There were forty there. A pot luck lunch was held at noon. The tables had beautiful bouquets of Mayflowers on them, also tiny Maybaskets of candies. After the business meeting an auction was held. Jim Rowe was auctioneer. We are always glad to have him with us.

Robert Doughty gave a talk on her missionary work and also showed some slides which were most interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Doughty and Inez Barker went to Gray Sunday afternoon to attend the Pythian Jubilee.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Parker of Bethel visited Stan Nelson and wife Saturday.

Wayne Stearns and two sons of Naples were at his mother's home Saturday, doing some work for her.

Mrs. Vesta Nelson was a dinner guest of her brother, Errol Barker, Sunday. It was Errol's 83rd birthday. All of his children and family visited him, so he had a most enjoyable day.

Mrs. Inez Barker's ducks came through the winter all fine, for all that they were out all winter. Sometimes wild ducks join them and she feeds them too.

There is a Pattern My life is but a weaving Between my God and me; I may not choose the colors, For he can view the pattern Upon the upper side.

While I can see it only On this—the under side Sometimes he weaveth sorrow Which seemeth strange to me; But—I will trust his judgement, And work on faithfully; 'Tis He who fills the shuttle, He knows just what is best So I shall weave in earnest, And leave with him the rest. At last, when life is ended, With Him I shall abide, Then I shall view the pattern Upon the upper side.

Upon the upper side, Then I shall know the reason Why pain, with joy entwined, Was woven in the fabric. Of life,—that God design'd.

Mrs. Frances Peabody

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HEARS OF TATE HOUSE AND MAST TRADE

A slide presentation on the Tate House and mast trade was given by Mrs. Frances Peabody of Portland at the monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held last Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason Museum in Bethel.

Mrs. Peabody, who is Chairman of the Tate House Committee and Maine representative for the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, explained the importance of the mast trade as essential in understanding the Tate House. Before the American Revolution, Britain's supremacy on the seas was due at least in part to her unlimited supply of masts—tall, straight white pines from the forests of New Hampshire and the Province of Maine. These masts were so important to Britain that special "mast ships" were built, designed for the sole purpose of transporting cargoes of masts. When Britain was at war, an armed escort accompanied the mast ships on their crossings. The Royal Navy's need for masts was so urgent that once a mast ship had discharged its cargo in Britain it would often re-cross the Atlantic with an empty hold in order to return to New England for more masts as quickly as possible.

Britain's need for masts, Mrs. Peabody continued, became a major cause of the Revolution in the Province of Maine. The King's Surveyor marked all white pines of mast size (over 24 inches in diameter) with slashes of his axe. All trees bearing this sign—a board arrow—were off limits to the colonists for lumber. The broad arrow came to symbolize the tyranny of the Crown to the landowners and woodcutters of Maine. Their resentment of Parliament's restrictions on their rights to cut timber on their own land led to rebellion.

According to Mrs. Peabody, George Tate moved his wife and four sons from England to the Province of Maine in 1751, when he was 51 years old. As senior mast agent to the Royal Navy, he was responsible for securing the mast trees and shipping them to Britain. He first built a warehouse on the river front of Stroudwater where his family lived until 1755 when he built his home overlooking the mast yard. A three-story clapboard house with unusual gambrel roof, running dormer and large central chimney, the house contains fine paneling, bolection moulding in the dining room, coffered ceiling in the hall and 18th century furniture. It has a fine diamond painted floor in the hall.

Few changes, Mrs. Peabody explained, have been made over the years—not even indoor plumbing—so the architecture was closer to the original than most houses of its age. The National Society of Colonial Dames of America in the State of Maine acquired it in 1931 and, after restoration, opened it to the public in 1935. A second restoration was undertaken in 1951. That year the foundation of an ell which had been razed between 1770 and 1775 was discovered and reconstructed in 1956.

Mrs. Peabody concluded her presentation by showing sketches of the various stages in the mast trade process, from forest to ship. Mast ships had to be long and broad in the beam to accommodate masts which weighed up to four tons each and measured over 100 feet in length. They were loaded through ports in the stern which were then sealed for the voyage to England.

The ships were built in Britain and Holland and probably in the colonies. They rotted out very quickly from shipping fresh water which soaked the masts when they were floated downriver in summer and clung to them as ice and snow when they were dragged overland by ox teams in winter. Mast ships were added Mrs. Peabody, considered expendable and were replaced frequently.

Prior to the program President Catherine Newell called members' attention to the poet Lucy Larwood of Lowell, Mass., who was a frequent summer visitor to Bethel and wrote among other poems "Mount Moriah from Bethel" while staying with the Russell family (now site of the Richard Davis house in Middle Intervale) and enjoying the view from the ledges and Sunset Rock.

delivery of lines, Davis showed himself to be a natural comedian. In all her scenes, Lyn Bristol, projected her person and voice with extraordinary showmanship. As "Hilda", the Amish girl who yearns for Davis, Bristol gave a side-splitting performance in her "I'll Show Him" scene. Her role required a wide variety of emotional range, from stubborn rebelliousness to moon-eyed adolescent infatuation, all of which Bristol was able to modulate with honed realism.

The rich quality of Lee Ann Trask's voice and the gentle gruffness of Paul Wilson as her Amish father were further examples of the quality of this community production. Ken Sawyer and Alison Whitney, as Isaac and Emma Miller, gave unbelievable strength to supporting roles, while the Amish brothers, played by Rick Bray and Bede Wellford, were well contrasted.

Chuck Ramsey, the policeman, spoke with an authoritative clarity and the chorus of Amish men and women acted and sang with force. The dancers and the children's chorus lent much interest and variety to the production, as did the projection of authentic slides of Amish country and people.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: The response and support this community gave to "Plain and Fancy" was super. A brainstorm hit me today and I began calling around and got more enthusiasm at the prospect of having a summer theatre this year in the Wherehouse West Bldg. which has been sitting empty for five months. So, we're going to have a pot luck supper at my house on Vernon St. on Sunday, May 20 at 4 p. m. for some sharing and more brainstorming for all interested people. No need to call, just be there to lend your ideas.

JACKSON-SILVER POST & UNIT ELECTS OFFICERS FOR

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

When May Day arrived, I admit that I drew a sigh of relief. Spring is getting down to business now. The birds are back, buds are opening, hepatics and blood roots are in bloom, and the farm work has started; fence building, fruit bushes pruned and plowing started. And my Mayflowers have opened. I brushed the leaves aside, as the sun beat down with an inviting warmth. I lifted up a few sprigs, and underneath I found clusters of buds with just a bit of white showing. Then nearer the top there were a few which had opened and were a glorious pink color. In natural setting the Mayflower is modest, beautiful and joyous. In its own home place I believe it to be one of the finest of flowers. There is something about it that is soul satisfying.

Our clocks are again on fast time but I don't seem to notice the difference in the morning. I like the dawn and I'm grateful for reasons strong enough to get me out from under the covers in time to see the early morning "doings" and enjoy the sun as it hits the mountains. Daylight doesn't burst forth, full of haste; it comes like a cat that stretches, opens its eyes slowly, looking the world over first, before it stands on its feet. Even the sun must have time to rise. It illuminates the wings of the black ducks. The light bounces and reflects and jumps from every motion of the pond like quicksilver. In the dawn there are bright leaves, singing birds and laughter. I remember a quote once made by a woman well advanced in years. "Dawn is the nearest to youth that most of us know after we pass the age of twenty."

One afternoon I went for an exploratory walk into the pussy willow field, across Turtle Bridge, and beyond, across a pasture, and up a mountain side where I hoped to find new life. I did. Now life in a new world was being made everywhere in the valley.

At the bridge an ugly snapping turtle was at the side of the road. It was so immovable that I thought it must be dead. However, when I touched its nose with a stick it really leaped and made a quick snap, fastening on to the stick.

Its wicked looking head and broad neck were too bulky to completely retract into its shell. Its tail was long, tapered and had scales. Its eyes can only be described as awesome; no trace of softness in them. I once watched one dig a hole in our garden, lay her eggs, cover them, and go back to the pond, for me a most interesting experience. She was very wary for the travel, and egg laying were all energy sapping operations.

Now in the woods I progressed along a trail. It extended before me and I stopped, walked a few steps, stopped again, as some new, familiar bloom of spring caught my eyes. I followed for a time this path that threaded the green valley, narrow and deep in the heart of the country side.

Back to the willow field, brushed with tender green; I noted the change in the "pussies".

At the top of a small tree sat a porcupine, working for its lunch. I climbed now to an old field-spar quarry and looked that over. We used to see much of it being quarried around here. It is the most abundant of all minerals, and is found in more kinds of rock than any of the others.

The bees, rather arthritic in early morning were not so. They hummed about.

Homeward bound now, I thought how beautiful May is. Trees cloaked in new light green, wild life everywhere, cattail reeds knife through the water surface close to shore. Ducks hurdle out of the sky to skid along the water surface. But beauty in all these things is just a by-product, not the purpose, of them being here. We are fortunate to find pleasure in them. These will recur year after year to those who are curious enough to wonder.

Reaching home, I wished I could see it all over again just as it was today. But it's nice to have a memory to put on paper. In nature all is change. In truth, we never cross the same river twice.

Frank and Dorothy Curtis were in Shapleigh on Monday to see Franze and Annie Mills. On Wednesday, Eva Felton, Lucy Ridley and I went to see them.

Ernest Morris has been a patient at the Maine Medical Center in Portland all this week. He had surgery this week on Tuesday and is now at home. Mrs. Morris stayed with her son in Portland for a few days.

I attended the Delta Kappa Gamma meetings at the Moses Mason House in Bethel on Saturday. Ann Holt, Bethel, called on her parents on Sunday.

Some of the Betts family from Portsmouth, N. H., have been here at their home for several days.

Mr. Sennet, West Paris, called on Leonas Holt on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hayes and family, West Paris, had dinner with their parents on Saturday.

Finish Job or Lose Sale

The Johnsons had a problem. A leaky roof. Now that their home was about to be put up for sale, Johnson arranged to have it repaired. Good thinking, Johnson. Almost.

After the job was finished at great expense, the yellow water stain still remained on the ceiling. Mr. Johnson said he had already spent enough on the roof and any prospect would believe him when he showed the repair bill.

The old adage of being penny-wise and pound foolish bore fruit. Each prospect asked about the stain. The receipted bill never quite put their minds at ease. One structural problem in a home is a red flag waving —

"Don't get involved with this headache."

Fortunately, for the price of a restaurant dinner the ceiling was repaired. It was finally sold, but only after too many of the best prospects had gone on to other properties. The moral is obvious. The fewer apologies you have to make for your property, the easier it is to sell. If you have any obvious red flags waving—remove them.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at EARLY REAL ESTATE, 60 Main St., Bethel. Phone: 824-2122, 824-2578. We're here to help!

I called on Austin Stearns and Carla Bennett at Ledgeview Wednesday afternoon. Lizzie Russ was downstairs working on decorations so I didn't see her. All were as usual.

Elvina Paine and nephew called on me Friday. He is a member of the Raymond Orthopedic Inc. group from Raymond.

Hurrah! I finally got over the house, basement and sheds. Now it's about time to start right over again. That's housecleaning. It really is never all done to stay. I have three windows yet when I can get the plants on the porch so I can get at them. The weather will depend on that. It was 88° the first of the week which is a little too cold to put plants out yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell and family and Deven Andrews were at Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ross Monday night for a birthday celebration for William Ross, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross.

STATE OF MAINE
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Karen L. Brown

May 4, 1979

This week I presented two pieces of legislation at public hearings that should have a positive effect upon our area. The first was an investment Tax Credit proposal that would utilize IRS definitions with respect to the type of investment that qualifies for credit. This proposal would broaden the existing "Pratt & Whitney" tax credit law to apply to all types and sizes of industry. The 1978 law was enacted with a $5 million minimum investment and a minimum of 200 new jobs. In place of this my legislation has a provision that permits the taxpayer two alternative methods of qualifying for credit.

The first would permit a credit on all qualified investments up to five times the "new jobs credit base." (This was defined as the increase in taxes paid by the taxpayer to the Employment Security Commission over previous tax years, divided by $6,000 equals the number of new jobs created.) If one job is created, a credit is permitted on qualified investments of no more than $30,000. After 200 jobs and $6 million, the bill has no limitation on investments other than limiting the credit to seven consecutive years.

The second option takes a different approach in that an investment might not create new jobs, but enhance the productivity of existing jobs. The taxpayer would be required to have a certain size investment in order to qualify for the credit. Under this option, the taxpayer must invest an amount equal to at least half his average annual Maine net income during the previous three years in order to qualify for a credit on the portion of investment that is in excess of that amount.

My proposal is one of three Investment Tax Credit bills that are being considered to encourage business investments in Maine.

The second piece of legislation that I presented this week would encourage the use of solid waste as a fuel source by applying a separate particulate emission standard to solid waste fuel burning equipment. Presently, the burning of solid waste (garbage, sawdust, chips, bark, etc.) is discouraged because solid waste fuel burning equipment is held to the same particulate and visible emission standards as oil-fired equipment. As a result, thousands of tons of solid waste fuel are being used as land fill. Unlike oil-fired equipment, the principal emission is not sulphur dioxide, but particulate matter.

My legislation would establish a separate standard for solid waste boilers and therefore encourage the use of solid waste by industrial and municipal sources. This will reduce the solid waste disposal problems and dependence on foreign oil.

It is estimated that this bill would result in a salvage of up to 35,000,000 gallons or 900,000 barrels of oil yearly in the State of Maine. This figure is equal to 10% of all residential fuel oil burned in the State.
